The Constitution of the Interstate Government

As ratified by the Interstate Government Illinois-Wisconsin Division Constitution Drafting Committee on the 7th of November, 2026

Article 1:
The Area of Interstate Governance

Section 1: Interstate governance extends and is limited to the divisions between all states.
Section 2: An individual may belong to an interstate division to which they have a vested interest in governing.
Section 3: Membership to a division shall not exclude membership to other divisions.

Article 2:
Committees

Section 1: Individuals may establish committees of interstate divisions.
Section 2: Committees shall establish meeting agendas.
Section 3: Committees may not conduct meetings without a meeting agenda.
Section 4: Committees may reserve periods of unplanned participation within the framework of the agenda.
Section 5: Committee members may suggest changes to the agenda should an objection arise from the proceedings of the meeting.
Section 6: Governance of an interstate division shall occur in committee meetings of the same division.
Section 7: Committee naming shall adhere to the following formula: "Interstate Government [Territorial division] Division [Subject of committee's governance] Committee"

Article 3:
Law

Section 1: Committees may create laws within their division.
Section 2: A law shall not be made without reason.
Section 3: A law can rescind a law.
Section 4: Official action of the interstate government shall originate in a committee's law.

Article 4:
Judgment

Section 1: Committees shall only enforce their own laws.
Section 2: Enforcement of the law shall only occur in committee meetings.
Section 3: Committees shall judge whether a law has been transgressed.
Section 4: Committees may not prescribe a sentence prior to the transgression of a law.
Section 5: Committees may not establish precedents.

Section 6: A sentence shall bear an immaterial relation to the law and the manner in which it was transgressed.

Article 5:

Documentation

Section 1: The proceedings of committee meetings shall be recorded and published in appropriate channels. Lacking other methods of documentation, a committee member shall record and publish the meeting minutes.
Section 2: An unrecorded committee meeting may not establish official policy of the interstate government.
